

bet-at-home.com AG: Change on the Board of Directors at bet-at-home.com

In agreement with the Supervisory Board, Board of Directors member Jochen Dickinger (37) is stepping down from the Board at his own request for personal reasons as of 31 October 2012. Jochen Dickinger is the co-founder of bet-at-home.com and has been CEO and Chairman since 1999. The company's Supervisory Board is appointing Michael Quatember (40) as his successor with effect from 1 November 2012. Michael Quatember has been Head of Finances and Accounting in the bet-at-home.com Group since February 2009. Previous to this he worked for 11 years at KPMG Austria as an auditor.

On behalf of the company, the Supervisory Board would like to thank Jochen Dickinger for his tireless efforts for bet-at-home.com and wishes him all the very best for the future.

About bet-at-home.com

The company has an online gaming licence issued from Malta owing to having wholly-owned companies. With more than three million registered customers from all over Europe at the current time, the company, which is listed on both the Frankfurt and Vienna Stock Exchanges, is one of the most popular providers of betting in Europe. There are offices of bet-at-home.com in Malta, Germany and Austria. The range of services provided on www.bet-at-home.com encompasses sports betting, casino games and poker.

Contact

bet-at-home.com AG
Franz Ömer
Kronprinzenstraße 82-84
D-40217 Düsseldorf
ir@bet-at-home.com
www.bet-at-home.ag